

1. The first group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

2. The second group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

3. The third group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

4. The fourth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

5. The fifth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

6. The sixth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

7. The seventh group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

8. The eighth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

9. The ninth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

10. The tenth group of respondents (10%) was made up of 100% females, with an average age of 34.5 years. They were all employed in the health care sector, with 50% being nurses and 50% being other health care professionals. They were all from the same hospital.

10/804,247

William M Pierce

LIDONNICI P.E., KENNETH
M.

3711

[illegible]

INTERFERENCE SEARCHED
Class	Subclass	Date	Examiner

[illegible]